The Megarhetorics of Global Development policies. It is a first-ever attempt in India to inform policy makers about how micro-variables can be a crucial factor to consider while framing social policies.

...define themselves are becoming important. Therefore, this book discusses important psychological issues related to human development; particularly, health, education, social justice, social integration, environment and work organizations, besides focusing on some general issues relating to the logic of making social policies for national as well as human development in India. Although the role that psychological knowledge can play in informing social policy decisions has been discussed for a long time, psychologists by and large have had little role in framing policy decisions related to such important domains as education, health, social justice and social inclusion. Policy makers, not only in India, but more or less everywhere have focused on interventions at the macro level, which has led them to ignore the root causes of the problems lying at the micro level. However, with the more humanistic approaches now being followed by economists and other social scientists, the situation is changing. Policy makers are now recognizing the importance of addressing the root causes of problems before they reach the macro level. They are realizing that...
